Waste Treatment

The waste treatment plant, which was built in 1972, treats between 2.5 and 3.5 million gallons of mill effluent per day. The effluent flows by gravity from the mill to the surge tank on the river bank. The surge tank is capable of holding approximately 900,000 gallons of mill effluent. There are two lift pumps that pump the effluent up to the primary clarifier. The primary clarifier allows solids to settle out of the effluent. The effluent then goes through the rotating biological contractors or RBC's-pictured here. The RBC's, (or Bio Discs, as they are also called) provide a media for bacteria to grow and "eat" the organic material (fiber, latex, etc.) out of the effluent. The water then goes through the secondary clarifier where more solids settle out. The clean effluent then flows into the river.

We haul approximately 3 to 12 yard trucks of sludge to the Potlatch monofill every day. The monofill was built in 1988.

The original Brainerd Mill Dam was built in 1916 but was washed out by flood in 1950, which forced the construction of the present day concrete dam.

In 1918 two generators/grinders were installed. Generator/grinder motors 4, 5 and 6 were installed in 1936, 1940 and 1949, respectively. They were originally installed as grinder motors for the pulp mill. Later in 1955 the generators/grinders 4, 5, 6 were switched over to the generation of electricity.

UNION NEWS by Dick Tromblay Irene Olson and Becky Reimer

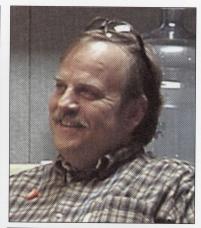

In Memory

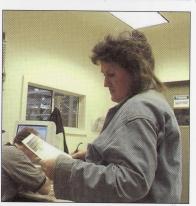

Connie McCollum Aug. 6, 1954—Nov. 9, 2000

"Connie was highly dedicated to her job and to the Union. She always listened to employee concerns and followed up on them with determination and enthusiasm. Connie will be greatly missed by all those who knew her. Brainerd's Union employees have lost a true fighting champion for Union rights."
